Generally it is divided into two parts: the cash disbursement book, which records all cash payments, and the cash receipts book which records all cash received into the business.

The Cash disbursement book would include items such as payments made to vendors to reduce account payable, and the cash receipts book would include items such as payments made by customers on outstanding accounts receivable or cash sales.

(b) The Classified Abstract: - the Classified abstract of expenditure constitutes the principal means of check over expenditure for the officer and the principal Auditor, both as regards appropriation under each account head and administrative sanction for each item.

- (i) Sufficient details should be given to each transaction being readily ascertained without reference to the detailed voucher.
- (ii) Separate classified abstracts will be prepared for "revenue" and "capital" expenditure. A copy of the abstract should be submitted monthly to the Secretary. The certificate at the end of the form of classified abstract should be signed by the Secretary after he has satisfied himself that their requirements have been complied with.

(c) The Register of Securities : The Register of security is compulsory if security furnished in the form of immovable property under Indian Registration Act , 1908. The term "security means any note, stock, treasury stock, security future, security-based swap, bond, debenture, evidence of indebtedness, certificate of interest or participation in any profit-sharing agreement, collateral-trust certificate, pre organization certificate or subscription, transferable share, investment .

(d) The Register of Stock and Furniture: Every head of an office should maintain a stock account of furniture and all other office stores (except books, forms and stationary) in form 10, showing the number received , the number disposed of (by transfer ,sale, loss, etc) and the balance in hand for each kind of article separately, when an office is large and the furniture etc., is kept in several rooms , the head of the office may have an inventory of the furniture , etc kept in each room hung up in the room and kept up to date in order to facilitate the annual verification of stock and fix the responsibility for any loss that may occur.

Every head of an office should also maintain stock accounts for forms and stationary in accordance with rules in the stationary manual, and also register of books belonging to the office.

(e) The Register of Cheque Books: A cheque book register template is a registered one that can be maintained for business and personal purposes to track incoming and outgoing funds in the bank account through checks while recording essential details like the category of inflow/outflow, check issuing parties, category of cash flow, etc. A cheque issued register (CIR) is a document that records all cheques issued by a bank or other financial institution. A cheque register, also known as a cash disbursement journal, is the journal that records all the checks, cash and cash outlay during an accounting period. A check register usually includes the dates, check number, the person that paid, account names, and the credit and debit associated with the transaction.

(f) The Register of Leave Provident Fund and Pension Contributions:

EPF is a welfare scheme brought into force to secure a better future for employees. It is a statutory benefit available to the employees post retirement or when they leave the services. In case of deceased employees, their dependents will be entitled for the benefits. Under the Employees' Provident Fund Scheme (EPF Scheme) both employers and employees have to make their contributions towards the Fund. Interest earned on the amount is credited to the member's Provident Fund Account (PF account) and is available to the employee at the time of retirement or exit from employment as the case may be, provided certain conditions are fulfilled.

The contributions payable by the employer and the employee under the scheme are 12% of PF wages. From the employer's share of contribution, 8.33% is contributed towards the Employees' Pension Scheme and the remaining 3.67% is contributed to the EPF Scheme. Employer's contribution towards Employees' Deposit-linked Insurance Scheme is 0.50% and the administrative charges are 0.50%.

(g) The Register of Permanent Advances: All Administrative Departments of the Government and Heads of Department will be empowered to exercise full powers to decide, in consultation with their Internal Financial Advisers or Account Officer, wherever they are attached to them, all matters relating to the fixation of the amounts of permanent advances in respect of offices subordinate to them. While fixing the quantum of permanent advance, the sanctioning authority should take into account the following conditions: (a) the sanctioning authority should bear in mind that the advance should not be larger than is absolutely necessary (b) The advance should be based on the average monthly contingent expenditure under the head 'Office expenditure, of the office for the preceding twelve months; in case of a new office the amount of advance should be fixed on conservative basis subject to review after six months.

(h) Annual Accounts : The Financial Statements comprising the balance sheet as at 31st March of every year, the income & expenditure statement and receipts & Payments Account for the year then ended have been audited by the Chartered Accountant.

(i) Any other Account Register which excludes the above registers and forms and related to the accounts.

(a) The monthly accounts shall be compiled in the classified abstract according to the primary units of appropriation. Suitable secondary units may be opened at the discretion of the Secretary who shall be responsible for the due preparation and maintenance of all accounts.

The own funds generated during implementation of the Act shall be utilized for the purpose of.
